Item 4 – Advisory Business

KF Group, LP (“KFG,” or the “Adviser”) was formed in 2019 in order to effect the acquisition of the assets of Solaris Advisors, LLC and related entities (collectively, “Solaris”) by an affiliate of Klingenstein, Fields & Co., LLC, doing business as Klingenstein Fields Wealth Advisors (“KFWA,” collectively with KFG and other affiliates, “Klingenstein Fields,” “we,” “us” or “our”). Effective June 14, 2019, KFG acquired and holds the legacy assets of Solaris, including the client advisory agreements. The principal owner of 25% or more of KFG is a trust for the benefit of the Klingenstein family. Kenneth Pollinger serves as Chief Executive Officer of KFG.

KFG is under common control with KFWA, an investment adviser registered with the SEC, and KFG and KFWA share the same principal office and place of business, personnel, and other resources. KFG and KFWA operate a single compliance program and conduct and operate a fully integrated advisory business. While the former operating members and employees of Solaris are now employees of KFWA, KFG and KFWA have entered into an agreement, under which the primary team of personnel providing services to previous clients of Solaris, including the client-facing staff, will continue to manage the oversight, investment decisions and servicing of such clients.

Types of Advisory Services We Offer

KFG (pursuant to an agreement with KFWA) generally creates wealth plans and investment programs as part of its wealth management services and its investment consulting services that are designed to meet each client’s specific needs and investment objectives. For each client, we recommend and implement an individualized asset allocation with a suite of investment managers and pooled investment funds, including hedge funds and private equity funds. This asset allocation process can be augmented for operating non-profits by certain specialized analytical models that we have created to understand better the impact of their operating and capital expenses on their endowments. Ongoing monitoring and detailed regular reporting is also provided to each client.

KFG provides wealth management services to high net worth individuals and families. For individuals and families, optimal investment programs are predicated not simply on a prescient view of the capital markets and an ability to uncover and allocate to top tier managers. Rather, they demand a deep understanding of the client’s unique circumstances including liquidity requirements, risk appetite, current tax and legal considerations, and the investment goals set forth at the outset of every engagement.

KFG provides investment consultancy services principally to non-profit staff, boards and investment committees to help them make better, more fully integrated financial decisions. KFG does this by providing actionable modeling information, discussion leadership and vast experience working on behalf of a broad array of not-for-profit organizations. While KFG offers OCIO services, we are by nature collaborative, ensuring that our client fiduciaries are fully informed and in a position to work closely with us to enhance their investment programs.

Each relationship, whether individual or institutional, is separately managed and recommendations are made and implemented on a risk-adjusted basis, taking into consideration each client's individualized circumstances.

Types of Investments We Invest In

For its clients, KFG (pursuant to an agreement with KFWA) may invest in some or all of the various types of domestic or foreign investments that are currently available in the global investment marketplace, including equity securities; warrants; options; government, municipal and corporate debt of all types and maturities; mutual funds; exchange traded funds; real estate investment trusts; and so on. In addition, depending upon a client's needs and investment objectives, KFG may invest client accounts in limited partnerships which can include hedge funds, master limited partnerships, and private equity investments, which in turn invest in some or all of the types of investments set forth above. If the client agrees, KFG may also invest in its limited partnership, the Solaris Ara Fund (the "Ara Fund"). The Ara Fund does not have a performance fee although the Ara Fund will pay fees to KFG for the administrative services provided to it. The Ara Fund is more fully described in Item 10 below titled "Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations - Private Investment Funds Advised by KFG."

How We Manage Your Assets

Typically we will make investments after a thorough iterative process with each client. In order to achieve a client's desired investment objectives and needs, each individual client asset allocation and manager and fund selection and corresponding investments will vary based on that client's particular circumstances and goals. After agreeing on an individualized wealth plan with the client, KFG (pursuant to an agreement with KFWA) will effect the client's plan by recommending and implementing specific investments, such as separate account managers and/or public or private fund investments to the client. Ongoing supervision and monitoring of a client's investments will be provided and we make recommendations for change whenever we believe it is appropriate in accordance with each client's needs and investment objectives. Each relationship will be separately maintained and recommendations are made and implemented on a risk-adjusted basis.

Restrictions on Types of Investments

The client may place restrictions on the types of investments in the client's account. Such restrictions may be on any basis, including asset classes, types of investments, market sectors, industries, individual or types of securities or certain investment vehicles. In managing a client's account, we will follow those restrictions that we and the client have agreed upon in writing. It is the client's responsibility to inform the Adviser of additional restrictions, changes in restrictions or when restrictions should no longer apply to their account.

Where a Client's Assets are Held

KFG requires that each client contract with and maintain a relationship with a reputable qualified custodian that is unaffiliated with and fully independent from us. A client's custodian will hold the client's assets and provide reports directly to the client on a periodic basis.

Non-Investment Consulting/Implementation Services

To the extent requested by the client, KFG may provide as a part of its services incidental consulting services regarding both investment and non-investment related matters such as estate planning, tax planning, financial modeling, insurance, etc. Particularly with respect to operating non-profits we can assist in evaluating the impact of their operating and capital expenses on their endowments and the asset allocation, style and sector weighting and manager selection. These activities are also described in Item 10 below titled "Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations". Neither KFG, nor any of its representatives, serves clients as an attorney, accountant, or insurance agent. To the extent requested by a client, KFG may recommend the services of other professionals for certain non-investment implementation purposes (i.e. attorneys, accountants, investment bankers, insurance agents, etc.). The client will be under no obligation to engage the services of any such recommended professional. The client will retain absolute discretion over all such implementation decisions and is free to accept or reject any recommendation from KFG. KFG will not receive any compensation from any third party professional for making referral recommendations nor will we charge for these referral services.

If the client engages any such recommended professional, and a dispute arises thereafter relative to such engagement, the client agrees to seek recourse exclusively from and against the engaged professional.

Client Obligations

In performing its services, KFG shall not be required to verify any information received from the client or from the client's other professionals, and is expressly authorized to rely thereon. Moreover, each client is advised that it remains his/her/its responsibility to promptly notify KFG if there is ever any change in his/her/its financial situation or investment objectives for the purpose of reviewing, evaluating or revising KFG's previous recommendations and/or services.

Non-Discretionary Service Limitations

Clients that determine to engage KFG on a non-discretionary investment advisory basis must be willing to accept that KFG cannot effect any account transactions without obtaining prior verbal consent to any such transaction(s) from the client. Thus, in the event of a market correction during which the client is unavailable, KFG will be unable to effect any account transactions (as it would for its discretionary clients) without first obtaining the client's verbal consent.

Investment Risk

Different types of investments involve varying degrees of risk, and it should not be assumed that future performance of any specific investment or investment strategy (including the investments and/or investment strategies that are recommended or undertaken by KFG) will be profitable or equal any specific performance level(s).

Assets Under Management

KFG operates a single advisory business with KFWA. KFWA (pursuant to the agreement between KFG and KFWA) provides continuous and regular supervisory or management services to KFG's clients. Accordingly, the regulatory assets under management ("RAUM") attributable to KFG's clients is reported by KFWA, and not by KFG, on a consolidated basis with KFWA's other clients.

As of June 30, 2019, KFWA estimates that it has approximately $4,000,000,000 in assets under management, of which approximately $1,200,687,124 is attributable to the clients of both KFG and KFWA. KFWA's Form ADV can be found here: <https://adviserinfo.sec.gov/Firm/105907>.

Item 5 – Fees and Compensation

How and When Fees are Charged and Collected

KFG charges fees as agreed upon with each client and in accordance with the terms of its agreement with that client. Fees for investment consulting and wealth management services are typically calculated based on the fair market value of the assets on the last business day of a calendar quarter. Depending on the terms of each agreement, fees may be payable quarterly in advance or in arrears, at an annual rate as described below. During any quarter, fees may be adjusted for any partial period pro rata to reflect any client directed additions or withdrawals which the Adviser deems are material. Fixed fees may be charged for investment related consulting services.

Clients may request to be billed directly for fees rather than have fees debited from their custody account(s). The client's independent qualified custodian will deliver an account statement at least quarterly. These account statements will show all disbursements from the client's account and each client should review all statements carefully for accuracy.

Fees We Charge

For its wealth management services to high net worth individuals, families, and their trusts, the Adviser's annual fee on the first $20 million in assets is 0.55%. The fee on the next $80 million in assets is 0.40%. The fee on the next $100 million is 0.25%. Amounts over $200 million are negotiable. The minimum fee is $100,000. However, notwithstanding this fee schedule, fees may vary depending on the level and scope of services provided or other considerations.

For its investment consulting services to non-profit institutions such as schools, colleges, cultural institutions, religious organizations and the like, the Adviser's annual fee on the first $10 million in assets is 0.75%. The fee on the next $30 million is 0.55%. The fee on the next $40 million is 0.35%. The fee on the remainder over $80 million is 0.15%. The minimum fee is $75,000. However, notwithstanding this fee schedule, fees may vary depending on the level and scope of services provided or other considerations.

From time to time in its sole discretion, the Adviser will determine to accept accounts under $10 million. For these accounts, the client shall pay the Adviser an annual fee for its services equal to: 1.10% of the first $2 million in assets; 0.90% on the next $3 million; and 0.75% on next $5 million of assets. The minimum fee for these accounts is $15,000.

However, notwithstanding this fee schedule, fees may vary depending on the level and scope of services provided or other considerations.

Contracts are generally terminable on thirty (30) days' notice. If terminated, all unearned and paid fees for partial periods will be refunded pro-rata based upon the number of days from the effective date of the termination until the end of the quarter. All earned and unpaid fees for partial periods will be billed based on the number of days from the beginning of the quarter to the effective date of the termination.

Regarding Fees

KFG, in its sole discretion, may charge lesser or greater wealth management and/or investment consulting or modeling fees and waive any minimum fee based upon a variety of criteria, such as anticipated future earning capacity, anticipated future additional assets, dollar amount of assets to be managed, related accounts, historic relationships, account composition, or the like.

What Our Fees Don't Include

KFG's fees are expected to be exclusive of charges imposed by custodians, brokers, third-party investments and other third parties such as fees charged by managers, funds, custodians, brokerage commissions and transaction fees, transfer taxes, wire transfer and electronic fund fees and other fees and taxes on securities transactions. For a more detailed discussion about brokerage fees and expenses please refer to Item 12 below titled "Brokerage Practices." Mutual and exchange traded funds and other pooled funds also charge internal management fees and expenses which are disclosed in each fund's prospectus or offering documents.

Third-Party Compensation that KFG Does Not Receive

KFG does not accept or receive compensation from third parties from the sale of securities or other investment products, including asset-based sales charges or service fees from the sale of mutual funds or any portion of these fees and costs. Such practices could present a conflict of interest because they might create an incentive to recommend investment products based on the compensation received rather than the client's needs. Accordingly, it is KFG's policy not to accept such third-party compensation to avoid any conflicts of interest with our clients.

Item 6 – Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

Eligibility for Performance-Based Fee Arrangements

In some select cases, KFG may enter into performance-based fee arrangements with clients who are qualified to do so. We structure any performance or incentive fee arrangement subject to the requirements of Section 205(a)(1) of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended.

How Performance-Based Fees Are Determined

We negotiate performance-based fees individually with each eligible client who wishes to have such a fee. Typically, each performance-based fee is different and specific to that client. In measuring clients' assets for the calculation of performance-based fees, we usually include realized and unrealized capital gains and losses.

Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management - Possible Conflicts of Interest

Performance-based fee arrangements could theoretically create a conflict for KFG in the allocation of investment opportunities between accounts with asset-based fees and those with performance-based fees. Accordingly, KFG employs procedures designed to ensure that all clients are treated fairly and equally. We make investment recommendations to each client solely based upon that client's needs and investment objectives. Every client gets the best investment ideas suited for that client, and no client is preferred, for whatever reason, over another client. We regularly review the holdings of every asset-based fee client account with the holdings of any performance-based fee client account to confirm that this conflict has not had any influence on the allocation of investment opportunities among our clients. Clients of KFG may also invest in its limited partnership, the Ara Fund. The Ara Fund does not have a performance fee. The Ara Fund pays fees to KFG for the administrative services it provides to the fund. The Ara Fund is more fully described in Item 10 below titled "Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations – Private Investment Funds Advised by KFG."

Item 7 – Types of Clients

What Types of Clients Do We Provide Investment Advice To

KFG provides wealth management services to high net worth individuals, families and their advisors, trusts, foundations, endowments and charities, and investment consulting services to non-profit institutions including schools, colleges, cultural institutions and religious organizations.

Minimum Fees

The minimum fees for a typical investment consulting or a wealth management account generally are $75,000. For accounts under $10 million, the minimum fees generally are $15,000. KFG may waive these minimums in whole or in part for any of its investment consulting and wealth management services, in its sole discretion, based upon any number of factors including the total client relationship or other circumstances such as, the type of services required, account composition, anticipated future earning capacity, historic relationships, anticipated future assets under management and related accounts managed by its affiliates.

Private Investment Funds That We Provide Advice To

KFG is investment adviser to the Ara Fund, a pooled investment fund in limited partnership structure that invests principally in U.S domestic equities through separate accounts and mutual funds with institutional investment minimums as well as exchange traded funds. The Ara Fund is offered to clients and others who are accredited investors. Item 10 below titled “Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations” has a more detailed discussion of the Ara Fund.

Item 8 – Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Customized Investment Programs

For each client, KFG (pursuant to an agreement with KFWA) designs and recommends an individualized investment program. That program will have a customized asset allocation with separate account manager and/or public or private fund investments which reflects that client’s individual circumstances and personal definition of risk. We do not group clients into standardized allocation programs. Instead for each client we craft our investment program, asset allocation and manager selection based on those factors that are critical to that client, such as loss of principal, need to maintain purchasing power, or having sufficient assets to complete an important personal project, to name a few. Because every client is unique, those investment programs and corresponding strategies will vary from client to client.

Methods of Analysis and Investment Strategies

The overriding tenet of our investment philosophy is to preserve capital and enhance the purchasing power of our client’s assets. Because clients ask us to steward their assets across generations, we craft individualized investment programs that seek to protect their capital while meeting their investment objectives over long time horizons. While we believe that markets are upwardly biased over the long term, we understand that making it through short-to intermediate-term downturns is crucial. Therefore, tactical considerations may result in our proactively seeking protection against certain shorter-term risks, particularly if they are not clearly understood by the market and when the cost of such protection is palatable.

Our client portfolios typically, but not always, include a broad mix of domestic and international long-only equity, traditional fixed income, long/short and low volatility hedge funds and real estate, private equity and commodities and other vehicles that may combine a variety of these investments.

We utilize a variety of methods, both formal and informal, internal and external, to arrive at our views on, among other things, the global markets, asset classes and sectors and various types of specific investments. Internally, we typically develop assumptions, regarding expected returns, the volatility of various asset classes as well as the correlations among them. Where cash flow modeling is useful, we use these assumptions as inputs to our simulation work which is forward-looking with a usual time horizon of 20 years. We routinely evaluate manager risk in myriad ways such as risk-adjusted return, standard deviation, downside volatility, and upside/downside market capture ratios as well as qualitative factors relating to the strength of the organization and its personnel. Externally we obtain a variety of inputs from third parties which we use to help us evaluate the significance and impact of economic, political, regulatory, geopolitical, market, and financial developments or other factors we deem pertinent on the strategic and tactical investment opportunities for our clients.

In addition to the agreement with KFWA, KFG retains managers of separate accounts and/or invests in pooled funds on behalf of its clients. We subject those current and prospective managers of separate accounts and pooled funds to quantitative reviews that can include peer group screening, analysis of sample portfolios and return patterns in various environments. Importantly, the metrics we use to assess managers are not uniform across styles and sectors since we believe that the criteria to judge, for example, an aggressive small-cap growth manager should differ from that used against a large-cap value manager or a global long/short manager.

In turn, those managers of separate accounts and/or pooled funds themselves utilize a wide variety of methods of analysis, investment strategies, and types of investments. Examples of methods of analysis that they use are fundamental and technical. They employ various investment strategies and combinations of strategies such as long only (both long- and short-term), trading, short sales, derivatives, options, and futures. Some managers may also use leverage. Samples of the types of investments that separate account managers and pooled funds are expected to invest in are set forth in more detail in Item 4 above titled “Advisory Business - Types of Investments We Invest In.”

Each separate account manager and pooled fund employ investment strategies in managing assets that they believe are critical and may involve all kinds of material risks. The strategies and the corresponding investment risks are as varied as the number and kinds of possible investments. They include market and investment risks, institutional/counter-party risks, non-US investment and currency risks, trading risks, interest rate risks, hedging risks, illiquid security risks and risks related to the effects of leverage to name just a few broad categories of risks. In the case of pooled funds, the prospectus or offering memorandum for that mutual fund, hedge fund or private equity fund sets forth in detail the nature of those risks.

Risks of Loss

Of course, any particular investment strategy does not guarantee success. Every investment program has the potential for loss as well as gain. Investment returns will fluctuate, and the value of any client’s portfolio will fluctuate and may be worth more or less. Even in a diversified portfolio of investment strategies there is always a risk of loss that clients should be prepared to bear.

All investments are subject to many inherent risks, including but not limited to asset allocation risk, interest rate risk, credit risk, inflation risk, market risk, focused portfolio and non-diversification risk and foreign securities risk.

For More Information About Risks

Current and prospective clients are encouraged to ask any questions they may have about the risks described above and other risks associated with investing with us.

Item 9 – Disciplinary Information

There are no legal or disciplinary events that would be material to your evaluation of KFG or the integrity of the Adviser’s management.

Item 10 – Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Other Financial Activities That We Engage In

KFG operates as a registered investment adviser and does not have any other material business. We are not registered as a broker-dealer, insurance broker, futures commission merchant, swap dealer, commodity pool operator or commodity trading advisor and we are not affiliated with any such organizations.

Material Relationships or Arrangements with Industry Participants

As discussed above, KFG was formed to effect the acquisition of the assets of Solaris, a group of related registered investment advisers. Following the acquisition, Solaris withdrew the SEC registration for its advisory entities and ceased operations as a registered investment adviser.

KFG is under common control with KFWA, a registered investment adviser, and share certain resources and personnel (including former employees of Solaris) with KFWA. As such, KFG and KFWA and other affiliates making up Klingenstein Fields have implemented a unitary compliance program and otherwise conduct a fully-integrated advisory business. While the former operating members and employees of Solaris are now employees of KFWA, KFG and KFWA have entered into an agreement, under which the primary team of personnel providing services to previous clients of Solaris, including the client-facing staff, will continue to manage the oversight, investment decisions and servicing of the such clients. Different performance or management compensation structures or incentives may apply to shared personnel, which may create a conflict of interest. KFG has adopted policies and procedures, including a Code of Ethics as described below in Item 11, to address these potential conflicts of interest.

A number of advisory clients of KFWA have engaged, and in the future clients of KFG may engage, Brandywine Trust Company, LLC (“Brandywine”), a Delaware-chartered non-deposit trust company, to serve as a corporate trustee. Brandywine has engaged KFWA to provide investment advisory services for a number of its trust clients, some of whom are affiliated with us or our related persons. Our related persons serve as directors of Brandywine, and as trustees of a trust (for the benefit of one such person’s family), which has a minority ownership interest in Brandywine. We do not consider Brandywine to be our related person or affiliate but disclose this information to describe and explain the potential conflict of interest.

Private Investment Funds Advised by KFG

KFG is the investment adviser to the Ara Fund, a pooled investment fund in limited partnership structure that invests in U.S domestic equities principally through separate accounts, mutual funds and as well as exchange traded funds with institutional investment minimums. The Ara Fund pays KFG a fee for administrative services it provides to it.

Affiliated Private Funds

KFG may recommend that qualified clients consider allocating a portion of their investment assets to the Ara Fund or to other affiliated private funds. The terms, conditions, conflicts of interest and risk factors of participation in the relevant fund, including management, administrative services and incentive fees, if any, will be set forth in the relevant fund's offering documents.

As a matter of policy and practice, KFG will discuss with every client in advance of any client investing in the Ara Fund or with any other affiliate:

- that there are conflicts of interest;
- that the client is not required to invest in the Ara Fund and/or with any other affiliate;
- that the client alone makes a decision to invest in the Ara Fund and/or with any other affiliate; and
- if the client decides to open a separate account with an affiliate, that the client can create termination standards.

KFG's clients are under absolutely no obligation to consider or make an investment in an affiliated private investment fund(s).

Conflict Of Interest

Because KFG can earn fees from the Ara Fund, including management and administrative services fees that may exceed the fee that KFG would earn under its standard asset based fee schedule referenced in Item 5 above, the recommendation that a client become a fund investor presents a material conflict of interest. No client is under any obligation to become a fund investor.

Unaffiliated Private Investment Funds

KFG may also provide investment advice regarding unaffiliated private investment funds. KFG may recommend that certain qualified clients consider an investment in unaffiliated private investment funds. KFG's role relative to the private investment funds shall be limited to its initial and ongoing due diligence and investment monitoring services. If a client determines to become a private fund investor, the amount of assets invested in the fund(s) shall be included as part of "assets under management" for purposes of KFG calculating its investment advisory fee. KFG's clients are under absolutely no obligation to consider or make an investment in a private investment fund(s).

Private investment funds generally involve various risk factors, including, but not limited to, potential for complete loss of principal, liquidity constraints and lack of transparency, a complete discussion of which is set forth in each fund's offering documents, which will be provided to each client for review and consideration. Unlike other liquid investments that a client may maintain, private investment funds do not provide daily liquidity or pricing. Each prospective client investor will be required to complete a Subscription Agreement pursuant to which the client shall establish that he/she is qualified for investment in the fund and acknowledges and accepts the various risk factors that are associated with such an investment.

Valuation

In the event that KFG references private investment funds owned by the client on any account reports prepared by KFG, the value(s) for all such private investment funds typically reflects the most recent valuation provided by fund sponsor and/or administrator. In cases where the valuation reflects the initial purchase instead (and/or a value as of a previous date), the current value(s) (to the extent ascertainable) could be significantly more or less than the original purchase price or prior previous date's price.

Compensation From Other Investment Funds and Advisers

KFG will not receive any compensation, directly or indirectly from any other investment adviser or pooled fund that it recommends.

Item 11 – Code of Ethics

KFG has adopted a Code of Ethics (the “Code”) for all supervised persons of the firm describing its high standard of business conduct, and fiduciary duty to our clients. The Code includes provisions relating to the confidentiality of client information, a prohibition on insider trading, restrictions on excessive gifts and entertainment and the reporting of certain gifts and business entertainment items, personal securities trading limitations and procedures, and guidance for handling complex situations, among other things. All supervised persons at KFG must acknowledge the terms of the Code.

The Adviser’s and its affiliates’ officers, Partners and other employees (“Employees”), and their immediate family members and certain other persons and entities associated with those Employees (“Related Persons”), are permitted to engage in personal trades, only provided they comply with KFG’s Code. Because Employees and their Related Persons may engage in personal trades, the Adviser may be effecting transactions on behalf of our clients in the same security or Instrument (as defined in the Code) on the same day as the Employee or Related Person.

In addition, KFG and its affiliates may manage a substantial amount of assets on behalf of Employees’ extended families and entities that they control that are not Related Persons (“Extended Families”). We treat accounts of Extended Families as client accounts not subject to the trading restrictions of the KFG Code. As used in this Item 11, “client” means anyone whose assets are managed by the Adviser, other than Employees and Related Persons.

We will seek, when reasonably possible, to aggregate transactions in the same security or Instrument on the same day on behalf of multiple clients, as well as Employees and their Related Persons. All participants in an aggregated transaction block will receive the same average price. Thus, while KFG will strive to serve the best interests of each client, permitting Employees, their Related Persons and their Extended Families to participate in an aggregated transaction could result in clients (other than Extended Families) receiving less favorable prices or smaller allocations than might otherwise be the case.

In these situations, there is a potential conflict of interest between KFG’s desire to treat all clients equitably and fairly and the desire to serve the best interests of its Employees, Related Persons and Extended Families.

From time to time, an Employee may serve as an officer or director of a public company and receive compensation therefore. As a result, such Employees might acquire material non-public information (commonly called “inside information”) about the company. Since client accounts may be invested in securities of the company, and since we would be prohibited from trading while in the possession of material, non-public information, we would be unable to trade the company’s securities for the benefit of clients and might be forced to hold the securities when selling would otherwise be indicated. As of this date, no Employees currently have any officer or director roles with any public company.

Personal Trading

The Code’s rules, restrictions and reporting requirements for personal securities transactions by Employees and their Related Persons are designed to prevent Employees and their Related Persons from taking advantage of client transactions or disadvantaging client transactions, and to prevent such activity from interfering with our making decisions in the best interest of clients. The Adviser’s Chief Compliance Officer or designee monitors these personal transactions to ensure compliance.

Nonetheless, because the Code permits Employees to invest in the same securities or Instruments as clients, there is a possibility that Employees might benefit from market activity by a client in a security or Instrument held by an Employee.

Transactions by Extended Families and transactions in certain types of securities (enumerated in SEC rules) are not subject to the restrictions of the Code.

Upon request, KFG will furnish a copy of the Code to any client, prospective client, or any Employee or Related Person with accounts managed by the Adviser.

Cross Trades

KFG generally does not engage in cross trades and prohibits principal cross transactions and all cross transactions in ERISA accounts. On occasion, however, KFG may execute a cross transaction between client accounts in which one client will purchase securities sold by another client, provided (i) the transactions are in the best interest of, and appropriate for, both clients; (ii) KFG does not receive any compensation in addition to its advisory fee in connection with the transaction; and (iii) the transactions are effected at a price KFG has determined by reference to independent market indicators to constitute “best execution” for both parties. While we will seek to ensure that the terms of cross trades are fair and reasonable, and the transactions are executed in a manner that is in the best interest of the clients involved in the cross trade, clients should be aware that the price of a security bought or sold through a cross trade may not be as favorable as it might have been had the trade been executed on the open market and any benefits of a cross trade may not be equally distributed among participating clients. Neither we, nor any related party, will receive any compensation in connection with such “cross” transactions.

Participation or Interest in Client Transactions

Principal Trades

Neither KFG, nor any of its related persons, acts as a principal and buys securities from or sells securities to any client.

Broker or Agent

Neither KFG, nor any of its related persons, acts as a broker or agent to buy or sell securities to any client whether with or without compensation or effect transactions in which client securities are sold to or bought from a brokerage customer. KFG does not enter into any agency cross transactions between client accounts.

Recommendations as an Investment Adviser

KFG or its related persons may purchase or sell open-end mutual funds that are also recommended to or owned by its clients. In our view this does not present a conflict of interest to any client of KFG.

Potential Conflicts of Interest

Pricing – Valuation of hedge fund and private equity securities

Clients of KFG frequently invest in pooled funds which own hard-to-value assets, assets whose value may become more accurate over time, or in assets that are only valued infrequently, such as real estate or investments in private companies. The valuations for hedge funds, fund-of-funds and private equity that KFG uses in its reports to clients and also for billing purposes (i) are provided by the investment manager or third-party administrator, (ii) are usually preliminary in nature or estimates in the event that such investment’s final statement is unavailable and (iii) typically not final until the completion of the pooled fund’s audit in the spring of the year following the year to which those valuations apply. Prior to the final audit these market values are typically subject to adjustment for several reasons that may impact the investment’s final valuation, such as the final independent audit itself, the application of special accounting rules and other fund-specific considerations. In addition, hedge and private equity fund investments are typically illiquid and redemptions from such investments often involve restrictions relating to the timing of the redemption and the availability of the proceeds, factors that could that could impact valuations. Accordingly, there is no assurance that any of the valuations used in client reports or for billing purposes for these investments are completely accurate. In the event that valuations change as they are updated, KFG does not restate the information in prior reports or adjust prior bills, upward or downward, to reflect final valuations. While this might be perceived as a conflict of interest, valuation discrepancies could benefit or penalize us. KFG uses its best efforts to reflect the most current up-to-date information available. We post the information in the same manner and believe that any discrepancies will be minor and any benefit or detriment will be mitigated over time.

Employing KFG's Affiliate, KFWA, or Investing in the Ara Fund

While KFWA and KFG have entered into an agreement whereby KFWA personnel provide services to KFG clients, KFG clients do not bear additional fees or costs for these services beyond the advisory fees charged by KFG. There is a potential conflict of interest, however, for KFG with regard to its affiliates, including KFWA, which could incentivize KFG to encourage its clients to open advisory accounts with KFWA, invest in funds managed by KFWA or other affiliates, or invest in the Ara Fund. As a matter of policy and practice, KFG discloses to every client in advance of any client investing funds with KFWA and/or the Ara Fund that the client is under no obligation to consider or make an investment with KFWA and/or in the Ara Fund.

Item 12 – Brokerage Practices

While the use of brokerage services to trade securities is not expected to be a substantial part of KFG's business, KFG has adopted the following best execution policies. KFG clients authorize us to utilize the services of any broker-dealer to execute securities transactions by executing our agreement which grants us authority to use the services of any broker or dealer without obligation to shop for lower commissions from others and, in compliance with Section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, to pay a commission on transactions higher than another broker or dealer would have charged in exchange for investment research. The agreement will further disclose that lower commission rates might be available elsewhere. We may negotiate commission rates on an individual basis with respect to each transaction, or as a standard rate.

KFG maintains executing brokerage relationships with various broker-dealers. KFG receives investment research and related products and services from certain of the broker-dealers that execute transactions for clients. These products and services include written reports and recommendations about companies and industries, economic trends and analysis, access to online reports and databases, the right to attend meetings with analysts and/or public company managements and access to large conferences and one-on-one meetings. These services generally will be provided only to institutional investors that do business with the broker-dealer. We will not use client commissions to pay for services from third-parties, except as described in this paragraph.

How We Select Brokers

We seek to select brokers who will execute transactions on terms that are, overall, most advantageous when compared to other available providers and their services. We consider a wide range of factors, including, among others:

- Effectiveness and quality of transaction execution services;
- Capability to execute, clear, and settle trades (buy and sell securities for client accounts);
- Breadth of or specialization in available investment products (stocks, bonds, mutual funds, ETFs, etc.);
- Availability of investment research and tools that assist us in making investment decisions;
- Competitiveness of commission rates;
- Reputation, financial strength, and stability;
- Prior service to us and our other clients;
- Availability of other products and services that benefit us, as discussed in this Item 12.

We have a duty to seek “best execution” in connection with all client trades. Best execution means the most favorable terms for a transaction based on all relevant factors, including those listed above.

On rare occasions, clients may direct KFG to execute some or all of their securities transactions through one or more broker-dealers. However, this may limit our ability to achieve best execution, limit the ability to participate in aggregated transactions and result in differences in timing from the transactions executed for other clients’ accounts. In the event that a client directs KFG to effect securities transactions for the client’s accounts through a specific broker-dealer, the client may pay higher commissions or transaction costs, or greater spreads, or receive less favorable net prices on transactions for the account. Higher transaction costs adversely impact account performance.

Subject to the exception stated in the previous paragraph and below under Research and Additional Benefits, we select brokers on the basis of where we believe our clients will get the best execution of the securities transaction on an individual trade. Among brokers deemed equally capable of providing best execution, we may also consider the value of products, research or services we get. These products, research or services help us to service all of our advisory clients and no client pays any additional amount for them. We will not allocate specific benefits based on the amount of clients' commission expenditures.

KFG benefits from commissions paid to brokers that provide research services because it does not have to produce or pay for these services directly. The availability of investment research conditioned upon brokerage activity may give us an incentive to choose a broker-dealer based on the need for the services rather than our clients' interests in receiving most favorable execution.

Research and Additional Benefits

Although not a material consideration when determining whether to recommend that a client utilize the services of a particular broker-dealer/custodian, KFG may receive from Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. ("Schwab") (or another broker-dealer/custodian or platform) without cost (and/or at a discount) support services and/or products, certain of which assist KFG to better monitor and service client accounts maintained at such institutions. Included within the support services that may be obtained by KFG may be investment-related research, pricing information and market data, software and other technology that provide access to client account data, compliance and/or practice management-related publications, discounted or gratis consulting services, discounted and/or gratis attendance at conferences, meetings, and other educational and/or social events, marketing support, computer hardware and/or software and/or other products used by KFG in furtherance of its investment advisory business operations.

As indicated above, certain of the support services and/or products that are received may assist KFG in managing and administering client accounts. Others do not directly provide such assistance, but rather assist KFG to manage and further develop its business enterprise.

KFG's clients will not pay more for investment transactions effected and/or assets maintained at Schwab as a result of this arrangement, except for the tradeaway/prime broker fees described below. There is no corresponding commitment made by KFG to Schwab or any other any entity to invest any specific amount or percentage of client assets in any specific mutual funds, securities or other investment products as result of the above arrangement.

Tradeaway/Prime Broker Fees. As more fully described above in this Item 12, relative to its discretionary investment management services, a material proportion of individual equity and/or fixed income securities transactions are effected through broker-dealers other than the account custodian, in which event, the client generally will incur both the fee (commission, mark-up/mark-down) charged by the executing broker-dealer and a separate “tradeaway” and/or prime broker fee charged by the account custodian.

We will not consider client referrals in selecting broker-dealers.

Trade Errors

KFG’s trade error policy is designed to ensure that its clients are treated fairly in the event of a trading error. We expect our portfolio managers and traders to communicate clearly with clients, counterparties and each other, and to be thorough and exercise the utmost care in the development and execution of transactions, with the goal of minimizing errors in all transaction-related activities. KFG understands that, on occasion, errors will occur in effecting trade orders. In the event KFG is responsible for a trade error, we will take all reasonable measures to place the client in the same position as if the error had not occurred. Klingenstein Fields has established a segregated trading error account to offset trade errors. When it is not possible to correct an error through the error account, due to timing, venue or other circumstances, KFG will make adjustments directly with the client. KFG is not responsible for errors caused by third parties.

Trade Aggregation and Allocation

KFG is a fiduciary to its clients. As such, KFG owes each client a duty of loyalty. No client is owed a greater or lesser degree of fiduciary loyalty and, therefore, no client or group of clients may be given preferential treatment in connection with investment opportunities. KFG’s duty of loyalty and equitable treatment of client accounts is the basic principle underlying its allocation and aggregation procedures.

Investment decisions for each client are made based on their individual investment objectives, and in each client’s best interest. We may, however, purchase or sell the same securities or Instruments on the same day for a number of client accounts, including those of Employees or Related Persons, as further described in Item 11. When circumstances allow, and we determine that it would be in clients' best interest, contemporaneous orders placed on behalf of eligible clients in the same security or Instrument, and on the same terms (e.g., orders at market), will be aggregated in a single block order at an average price. In addition, clients will share in the commissions and other transactional costs on a pro rata basis.

Item 13 – Review of Accounts

A supervisor reviews transactions for all investment advisory accounts daily. Each client account manager reviews each client's account at least quarterly with respect to performance during the previous quarter. We utilize various analytic processes to support supervisor oversight of the account review function.

Account managers and supervisors are available to meet with clients on request.

We will send quarterly statements to clients showing a summary of the investments in their account, including cost, current market value, yield, income, and other relevant information. As noted in Item 15 (below), clients should compare the statements we provide with statements for the same account from the client's custodian.

Item 14 – Client Referrals and Other Compensation

Our clients pay us fees to manage their financial assets and provide financial advice, as described in Item 5. We will not be paid in cash or prizes or with any other economic benefits by anyone else to manage client accounts.

Employees may benefit directly or indirectly by adding new clients or more client assets. KFG, from time to time, engages one or more individuals or entities to solicit investment advisory clients in accordance with SEC rules. The general form of arrangement and compensation entails a share of such fee revenues paid to the solicitor for a period of time. As of this writing, the number of accounts and amount of assets subject to these arrangements is not expected to be material to KFG. As noted in Item 15, Schwab is expected to be the custodian for the majority of KFG clients. We receive an economic benefit from Schwab in the form of the support products and services it makes available to us and other independent investment advisors whose clients maintain their accounts at Schwab. These products and services, how they benefit us, and the related conflicts of interest are described above (see Item 12).

The availability to us of Schwab's products and services is not based on us giving particular investment advice, such as buying particular securities for our clients. We do not require clients to maintain custody of their assets at Schwab. The availability of these products and services would not change materially, even if a substantial number of our clients moved custody of their assets away from Schwab, because the amount of assets our and our affiliates' clients have in custody at Schwab is many times larger than their threshold for providing such products and services. Accordingly, we do not believe that this relationship creates a material conflict of interest.

We believe that the availability of these products and services and the high level of coordination between Schwab and KFG provides a material benefit to our clients who choose to use Schwab as their custodian.

Item 15 – Custody

KFG is not a Qualified Custodian, so we do not hold funds and securities for client accounts. Under government regulations, however, we may be deemed to have custody of client assets due to the following circumstances:

- we are authorized to instruct a custodian to deduct our advisory fees directly from an account;
- we are authorized to move client funds or assets to another account of client or to another person's account;
- we (or one of our related persons) serve as trustee for a client;
- a client invests in a pooled investment vehicle that we control; or
- contractual provisions in the agreement between client and custodian may lead to inadvertent custody.

Each of these arrangements would give KFG or its related persons access to client assets. This means we must have procedures in place to ensure that we use those broad powers only for the benefit of our clients. In addition, KFG is subject to an annual surprise CPA examination to verify the assets for which we are deemed to have custody.

Clients typically designate a Qualified Custodian to hold their funds and securities and open an account. This may be a broker-dealer, a bank or other financial institution. KFG or its related person will generally be authorized to give instructions to the custodian with respect to all investment decisions regarding a client account as described in the client's investment advisory agreement with us.

We will not open the accounts for our clients, although we will assist them in doing so. The custodian will hold all cash, securities and other property of the client account. We are independently owned and operated and are not affiliated with any custodian.

KFG requires that clients contract with and maintain their own relationship with a reputable qualified custodian that is unaffiliated with and fully independent of KFG or its affiliates. Clients' custodian(s) hold clients' separately managed and mutual fund assets and reports to client directly on a periodic basis. This separation of a client's assets and of control between that client's wealth manager, investment manager and its custodian provides an essential check and balance for clients. While KFG reconciles client holdings with its custodian(s) on a daily basis to discover any differences between custodian(s)'s and its "books," each client is strongly encouraged to compare both sets of statements and inquire about any differences. Clients should verify that they are receiving custodian statements for their accounts on a regular, periodic basis. If a client believes that it is not receiving them, the client should contact its custodian(s) directly.

For client investments in certain pooled funds such as limited partnerships, including hedge funds and fund-of-funds, each of the commingled vehicles represents that it employs for its security holdings an independent qualified custodian unaffiliated with KFG. Investors in these investment funds receive annual audited financial statements prepared by the commingled vehicles' independent auditors and in some circumstances periodic statements from the funds themselves. Clients are encouraged to check and compare these financial statements against their statements from each fund. If a client believes that it is not receiving statements, the client should contact the fund's administrator or us.

Item 16 – Investment Discretion

KFG's agreements provide that we design wealth plans and investment programs and recommend and implement for each client an individualized asset allocation, sector and style weighting, a selection of investment managers, pooled investment funds and funds-of-funds including hedge funds and private equity funds in accordance with each client's needs and investment objectives. The agreement further provides for monitoring and detailed regular reporting to each client. In all cases we exercise investment authority consistent with the client's objectives, usually but not always, after seeking the client's informed acknowledgment. Clients may, but typically do not, place restrictions on our exercise of this discretion. From time to time, KFG may also provide investment consulting services to clients.

By giving us discretion to manage a client account, a client trusts us to do what is in their best interests. U.S. securities laws recognize this special relationship, and require investment advisers to be subject to a fiduciary duty, the law's highest standard of care. That means that we must put our client's interests ahead of ours at all times by providing advice and recommending investments that we believe are the best for our client. We must also explain any conflicts of interest that exist in our business and have policies and procedures to limit and mitigate these conflicts and protect clients from any damage. Certain of these disclosures may be found throughout this brochure.

Item 17 – Voting Client Securities

KFG relies on each client's investment managers to participate in corporate and class actions, if any, and to vote proxies for securities-related assets consistent with the investment manager's views as to the client's best economic interest. KFG will not undertake to vote proxies and participate in corporate and/or class actions unless specifically directed to do so by the client, usually on a case-by-case basis.

KFG's voting procedures may be amended from time to time. When an amendment is material, we will promptly send clients a description of the change or a new complete summary of the procedures.

Item 18 – Financial Information

KFG has no financial commitment or condition that impairs its ability to meet contractual and fiduciary commitments to clients. KFG has not been the subject of a bankruptcy proceeding.
